

MAY INCREASE COST OF LICENSE

Liquor Dealers in Lynchburg
Likely to Pay $2,500 for Privilege.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
Lynchburg, Va., March 7.—The Council Committee on Finance will meet tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock, and during that meeting, which will be the regular monthly session, the question of liquor licenses for the coming year will come up for consideration.

The present license, or, rather, the license made before the saloons closed in March, 1909, was $1,500, and this has been retained in the tax ordinance since the closing of the saloons; but it is believed that this will be increased. Indeed, a member of the committee today made the statement that the license for the coming year would probably be put at $2,500, in order to limit the number of places to about twenty. A license of $2,500 would, it is thought, accomplish this.

The impression prevails that the committee will recommend to the Council that the license be increased, and that it would not be at all surprising to see this either coupled with or followed by an effort to require all saloons to do business without a license.

Since Judge Christian disposed of the contest the air has been full of rumors as to who will get licenses and in what portions of the city they will be granted. Some of these reports even quote Judge Christian as saying that he will limit the number of saloons to twenty and that all of them will be confined to Main, Ninth and Twelfth Streets. As far as is known, there is no foundation for such reports, for Judge Christian will make no statement until the applications for licenses are brought before him in the Corporation Court.

It is recalled, however, that Judge Christian stated from the bench in 1909, when the licenses for that year were granted, that he would grant no more new licenses on Fifth Street, and that if any of the licenses then being granted were ever allowed to lapse, that no others would be given in their places.

It is not known what Judge Christian will do with respect to the granting of licenses on Fifth Street, but it is hardly probable that he would hold the two dry years against the former dealers who did business on that street, but it is not probable that the licenses will be given to any other dealers in that part of the city.

It is generally believed that the saloons will be confined to the same territory they were in before the city voted dry, but it would not be surprising if this is not contracted some when the licenses shall have been granted.

Under the Byrd law it will be impossible for the dealers to get their licenses until some time in April, for they must post notices of the fact that they intend to apply for licenses for at least thirty days before the application is made. It was thought some time ago that only ten days' notice was required by law, but this is a mistake, for the notice must be for thirty days.

It now seems quite certain that all

Is the Tuberculosis Crusade Losing Ground?

Despite all the efforts being made by advocates of fresh air and egg-and-milk treatments, the number of new cases has not been noticeably decreased. Write to us and ask to be referred to Clergymen, Priests, men and women who took Eckman's Alternative and are today well and strong without a trace of tuberculosis—pronounced so by physicians. Some of them took the Alternative ten years ago when doctors said they would not live ten weeks. Could anything be fairer to yourself and those who love you and would do anything to restore you to health? If you are skeptical—investigate us, our medicine, our advertised statements. Write to those who have sent in affidavits and testimonials (telling how Eckman's Alternative cured them. Here is one:

5225 Girard Ave., Philadelphia, Pa. Gentlemen: "The winter of 1902 I had an attack of Grippe, followed by Pneumonia and later by Consumption. I grew steadily worse. In the winter of 1904 I had cough, night sweats, fever and raised quantities of awful looking stuff, and later I had many hemorrhages; at one time I threw up three successive days. Milk and eggs became so distasteful I could keep nothing down. Three physicians treated me. I was ordered to the mountains, but did not go. Eckman's Alternative was recommended by a friend. After taking a small quantity I had the first quiet night's sleep for weeks. My improvement was marked from the first. I gained strength and weight and appetite. I never had another hemorrhage and my cough gradually lessened until I was perfectly well. Everything I say here can be verified by my family and friends."

JOHN T. PLEASANTS TAKEN BY DEATH

Widely Known Newspaper Man
Dies Suddenly in Baltimore.

ON STAFF OF THE SUN

Remains Will Be Brought to Old
Petersburg Home for Interment.

Times-Dispatch Bureau.
109 North Syracuse Street,
Petersburg, Va., March 7.
John T. Pleasants, eldest son of Dr. J. M. Pleasants, of this city, died this morning at 2:30 o'clock at his home in Baltimore of heart trouble, following a severe attack of pneumonia. He had almost recovered from the pneumonia and had resumed his editorial duties, when heart weakness developed, and his death came suddenly.

Mr. Pleasants was in his fifty-first year, and had devoted his life to the newspaper profession. He was a native of Petersburg, was educated in the private and public schools of this city, and was a graduate of McCabe's University School. In connection with W. S. Copeland, he established and for some years published the Daily Mail, an afternoon paper, here. He subsequently became associated with the Wilmington (N. C.) Messenger, and afterwards with the Philadelphia Evening Telegraph. For several years he was a member of the Petersburg Index-Appel, from which, about fifteen years ago, he went on the Baltimore Sun, and became one of the chief editorial writers of that paper, holding that position to the time of his death.

Mr. Pleasants was an able and brilliant writer, a man of broad culture and wide information, and a close student of current events. He had many warm friends in Petersburg—schoolmates and associates of his early years—who deeply regret his death. He is survived by his wife and two sons, by his father, one brother, C. G. Pleasants, of this city, and one sister, Mrs. Irvin King, of Philadelphia. The body will be brought to Petersburg on Thursday for burial in Highland Cemetery.

Left a large amount of property. The Petersburg delegation to the Southern Commercial Congress left for Atlanta in a special car at 1:50 o'clock this afternoon, via the Seaboard Air Line railway. The delegation was not as large as had been expected, several who had intended going being prevented from doing so at the last moment.

The list of delegates was as follows: C. H. Culbert, Nat. Harrison, Sidney P. Gill, M. A. Finn, James M. Gallagher, P. S. Pugh, E. C. Kent and L. R. Goulder.

Personal and Otherwise.
William A. Fenn, the oldest book-binder and printer in the city, and a most estimable citizen, is critically ill at his residence on Halifax Street.

The special board of directors of the Central State Hospital met this afternoon, audited all of the reports for the past month, and transacted routine business. There are between 1,300 and 1,400 inmates in the hospital. The board also examined plans for the new building to be erected for the criminal insane.

Snow began falling here about 2 o'clock this afternoon, and fell rapidly all the afternoon and evening. It was the heaviest fall of the season.

Though it has not yet been dedicated, services are being held in the new Methodist Church at Carson, in Dinwiddie county. Rev. J. W. Edwards is the pastor. Next Sunday revival meetings are to be begun in the church.

The Police Justice has given warning that all parties found guilty of cruelty to animals will be given the full limit of the law.

Cheaper Gas in Prospect.
After conferring with officials in Philadelphia, Manager Goudy, of the Petersburg Gas Company, offers reductions in the price of gas which may prove satisfactory. A reduction of 5 cents on the 1,000 feet of gas, and another reduction of 5 cents on July 1, 1912, and still further gradual reductions thereafter, on certain conditions, are the propositions offered. The conditions are for increased consumption of gas and a contract for a portion of the street lighting. This would bring the price of gas next year down to $1.15.

The matter is in the hands of the Gas and Light Committee of the Council, which is making investigations as to the feasibility of establishing a municipal light plant.

Baseball Notes.
The first exhibition game of baseball here will be played by the Petersburg club and the New York Americans on March 27, by which time the new park will be in readiness. Manager Bush has pretty well signed up the players of the local team, embracing some eight or ten pitchers, three or four catchers and a number of infielders and outfielders, all of whom are expected to report during the month.

Suspected Deserters.
Two young men, giving their names as Frank Hays and Charles Robertson, of Brooklyn, N. Y., suspected of being deserters from the United States Navy, were arrested here to-day and are being held until the naval authorities can be heard from.

Miss Jean Trigg, of this city, is training a class of fifty or more young men and women to assist the Richmond chorus in the coming May festival.

PREACHER PAINTS THE BOAT.
By So Doing He Keeps Owners From Desecrating Sabbath.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
Alexandria, Va., March 7.—Because he found a man painting a boat on Sunday, Rev. John Cavanaugh, pastor of the Free Methodist Church, offered to do the work free of cost if the man would desist in his work. The boat owner acquiesced, and to-day Rev. Mr. Cavanaugh was busily engaged in washing the brush and before the end of the day he had completed his task, and thereby saved the man from further desecrating the Sabbath.

Mr. Cavanaugh is a one-armed preacher, and before he entered the ministry he served his time as a painter, and although having but one arm he handles the brush dexterously.

Last Sunday morning, while the church bells throughout the city were pealing, Mr. Cavanaugh wandered out into the highways and byways, and finally reached the river where, when he found the work in progress, and a number of men of no particular creed basking in the sunshine. After having had the work stopped he proceeded to preach an exhaustive sermon, which was listened to with close attention by the rivermen.

Rev. Mr. Cavanaugh frequently preaches on the street corners before large audiences. At one time he lived in Richmond.

DR. PAGE IS CHOSEN AS "BEST MAN FOR PLACE"

DR. THOMAS WALKER PAGE.

No Politics Enters Into Appointment to Tariff Commission, but He Is Selected by Taft From Standpoint of Ability.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
Washington, D. C., March 7.—Inquiry at the White House to-day as to why Dr. Thomas Walker Page, of the University of Virginia, had been named as one of the tariff commissioners, brought out the brief reply that "he was the best man for the place."

Upon being asked further as to other motives which might have influenced President Taft in making this selection of Dr. Page for this place, Secretary Norton said:

"There was absolutely nothing of a political kind in the appointment of Dr. Page. It was made purely on a scientific basis, and for the reason just given—that he was the best man for the place. No political influence whatever was used to secure the appointment, although it is true that many scientists and persons well posted on the tariff question suggested Dr. Page."

A Notable Career.
(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
Charlottesville, Va., March 7.—Dr. Thomas Walker Page, whom President Taft has appointed one of the five members of the tariff board, is a native of Albemarle county, born near Cobham forty-four years ago. He received his early education in literature, and the classics under the tuition of his father, by whom he was prepared for college. After graduating from Randolph-Macon College he attended lectures in law at the University of Virginia, where his forbears for two generations have been educated. He then went to Germany, and in 1896 received the degree of Ph. D. from the University of Leipzig.

He spent some time in Paris and Oxford, and on his return he assisted for a year in organizing the recently founded Woman's College in Lynchburg. In 1897 he went as a lecturer to the University of Chicago, and the next year to the University of California, to which he had been called as professor of economic history. In 1901 he became dean of the College of Commerce. For a year and a half, falling between the time of the close of his term as professor of economics and his appointment to the University of California, he was in the University of the joint departments of economics and political science at the University of Texas. He was called from the deanship in California to be the first independent professor of economics in the university of his native state. This was in 1906, since which time his work has been felt for good in the institution that commands the unalterable devotion of loyal Virginians.

Dr. Page is the author of many monographs and papers on the value of the laboring classes, which have been published in the technical journals of political economy and by the American Economic Association. His Leipzig monographs, written in German, have been translated into Russian, French and English, and is used in the courses on economic history at Harvard, Oxford and other leading universities of the world.

HELD FOR FORGING BILLS OF LADING

J. Wilmer Wellfley Accused of Defrauding Southern Railway
Company Out of $5,000.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
Manassas, Va., March 7.—J. Wilmer Wellfley, who recently moved to this county from Front Royal, was arrested at his farm, near Bristow, this county, last night by the sheriff of Warren county on the charge of defrauding the Southern Railway Company out of $5,000 by forging the company's agent's name to bills of lading to that amount.

It is alleged that Wellfley, who until very recently conducted a large flouring mill at Front Royal, several months ago became very heavily involved financially, and that he, in some way, contrived to get into his possession bills of lading with sight drafts attached. To these bills of lading he forged the signature of the agent of the railway company and received shipments made to him without paying the drafts. It is claimed.

Wellfley was supposed to be wealthy until when he failed and a receiver was appointed to take charge of his business. It was then ascertained that he had sold all of the flour and wheat out of his mill at Front Royal, and that he had practically nothing with which to pay his creditors, whom he owes about $60,000.

Several months ago M. L. Wellfley, of Prince William county, conveyed to J. Wilmer Wellfley, a valuable property near Bristow to J. Wilmer Wellfley. It is said that he
